GIANTS WELL BEATEN BY CUBS

JEALOUS WIFE SHOTS GIRL AT IMPERIAL HOTEL.

Mrs. Morgan Was Taking Dictation in the Hotel When Mrs. Young, Wife of the Proprietor of the Stenography Establishment, Tried to Kill Her.

Late this afternoon Mrs. Young was taken suddenly ill and removed from the Elizabeth Street Police Station Bellevue Hospital. The woman appeared to be affected mentally as well as physically.

While Assistant Manager Frank Wiggins, of William Goodall Young's stenography and typewriting establishment, in the Imperial Hotel, was dictating a letter to Mrs. Catherine Morgan, a young woman employed there, at 12:15 o'clock today Mrs. Beatrice G. Young, the wife of the proprietor, from whom she is separated, entered, walked to Mrs. Morgan's side and, drawing a revolver, sent a bullet through her left shoulder into her body.

She was preparing to fire a second shot, when Mr. Wiggins knocked her hand up and then wrested the revolver from her.

"I want my child! Bring me my child!" screamed Mrs. Young as she struggled with Wiggins. She was finally overpowered and given to the police, while Mrs. Morgan was carried to a room and attended by Dr. Gilday, the hotel surgeon. He found that the bullet had entered the shoulder, clipped off a portion of the right lung and imbedded itself near the liver. He sent the girl to the New York Hospital, where it is said she will recover, although her condition is serious.

Mrs. Young's motive for the crime is unknown. Mr. Young was not in the hotel at the time of the shooting. The hotel people are unanimous in the praise of Mrs. Morgan's character, and say there was no jealousy on the part of Mrs. Young that could be justified.

Just after Young left Mr. Wiggins told Miss Beaulieu, a stenographer, and asked what she wanted. She says Mrs. Young looked dazed. She made up her mind she was an applicant for a place and was nervous so she said to her:

She claimed to be ignorant of any shooting and was so dazed by her action that it was impossible to get any rational statement out of her. Mrs. Young is a short, rather slight woman, with dark hair and eyes. She is twenty-six years old and attractive looking, but not especially pretty. She lives at No. 40 West Twenty-fourth street. Her husband is a fine looking man and enjoys a good reputation. Mrs. Morgan is thirty years old and lives at the Martha Washington Hotel. She is a blonde, rather delicate in appearance, and not at all pretty.

Just what trouble there has been between Young and his wife is not known, but they have been separated for some time. It is said that they have one child, that is now with Young's mother on Long Island. Young lives at the Grand Hotel.

Young's establishment is on the first floor above the street on the Broadway side of the Imperial Hotel. It is a large office, and in addition to himself, a manager and an assistant manager he employs six stenographers and typewriters. He does all the work of the hotel and a good deal of outside work, but the hotel has no interest whatever in the establishment. The door of Young's office opens to the ladies' parlor of the hotel.

This morning Young advertised in the newspapers for stenographers. When he left the hotel at noon he expressed every day in his place, with the exception of Mrs. Morgan, Mr. Wiggins and another young woman, just after Young left the hotel to the ladies' parlor. There was the usual Saturday afternoon crowd of women in the place, but Mrs. Young spoke to no one. She walked to the door, opened it and saw Mrs. Morgan who had been left on duty with Mrs. Morgan's stenographer. Mrs. Young looked dazed. She made up her mind she was an applicant for a place and was nervous so she said to her:

Mrs. Young looked dazed at her and then glanced at the door to where she was standing. She said to her:

BALL PARK, Chicago, Aug. 19.—There is something discouraging about the appearance of these South Side grounds. The mere sight of them dampens a visitor's ardor. From a distance they look not unlike Jasper Oval, on Amsterdam avenue, in New York, but one misses the bracing air of that locality.

Since last trip Comisky had a coat of whitewash out on the water barrel, but except that no repairs are visible. The whole field is one waste of unpainted boards, dilapidated benches, all lined with black smoke from near-by factories. Sometimes a white dress is seen on the grand-stand—people stare, then. As Willie Keeler said today: "I've always felt as though you were going to play a 'kid' game over in Long Island City, alongside the Newtown Canal."

Chicago folk decry the management's stinginess, but they turn out bristly. Just the same, for the White Sox are being backed strongly to win the flag. Nearly 8,000 attended yesterday's game, even with rain threatening, and this afternoon, though the clouds lowered, fully that number were on hand when the practice stunts began.

Conroy led the good ones go by and in was called on strikes. Keeler bounded one to Tannehill. Eberfeld lined a safe one to left. Williams hit for a base. Two batters scored. Eberfeld, Chase fanned. ONE RUN. Eberfeld's fly went to Conroy. Jones was an easy out. Chase to Chase. Davis fanned a beauty to left for two corners. Callahan had a good eye and waited for four balls. Keeler took care of Donohue line fly. NO RUNS.

Second Inning. Yeager out three games in the atmosphere. Fuller's attempt at the bat was feeble, and he went out on strikes. Keeler was killed in the ribs by a pitched ball. Devron also failed to fathom Smith's curves and fanned. NO RUNS.

McFarland's drive was nicely handled by Eberfeld, who tossed to Chase. Tannehill drove a wicked one past Eberfeld for a base. Williams ran back and made a good catch of Dundon's pop fly. Smith forced Tannehill. Eberfeld to Williams. NO RUNS.

Third Inning. Conroy's fly fell into Callahan's clutches. Tannehill made an easy toss to Donohue of Keeler's tap. Eberfeld fanned. A victim of Tannehill and Donohue. NO RUNS.

Conroy fanned a good catch of Jones's drive. Eberfeld's high fly was taken care of by Keeler. Davis reached first on a ball. Davis was an easy out. Callahan's fly and got it to Chase in time. Williams to Chase was Donohue's fate. Eberfeld squeezed McFarland's line drive. NO RUNS.

Fourth Inning. Williams hit the fence for two bases.

NEW YORKERS IN AUTO CRASH AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Vincent F. Walsh, son of Thomas F. Walsh, mining millionaire, of Colorado, was killed in an automobile accident this afternoon. His sister Evelyn was injured.

Mrs. James Kernochan's leg was broken in two places, and she was taken to a hospital. Harry Oelrichs and Herbert Pell, Jr., were also injured.

CHICAGO'S STRONG STAFF.

Chicago has the best pitching staff in the league outside of New York, and they are likely to take a full out of the Great batmen at any stage of the proceedings. Chances intended to work Reulbach today, but no one knew until Frank O'Day made his announcement.

The match with the Giants now is to play everything safe and take no chances. The present lead, most of the time, is to win the game. Chances intended to work Reulbach today, but no one knew until Frank O'Day made his announcement.

When the game began there were fully 20,000 spectators in the park and they were still coming. On account of an injury to his foot received in yesterday's game Billy (Go-day) Strang went to second. Breckinridge went to second. Breckinridge to right, and despite his illness, Donlin took center.

Slagle started with a slow roller, which Devlin devoured, and Casey went on strikes. Wiltse got in from Chance. NO RUNS.

Donlin celebrated his return to the game yesterday by slugging the ball for a single, which burnt up the grass in the left field. Mike was killed, and in second. McGraw took the count and in second. McGraw took the count and in second. McGraw took the count and in second.

Slagle started with a slow roller, which Devlin devoured, and Casey went on strikes. Wiltse got in from Chance. NO RUNS.

POLO GROUNDS, Aug. 19.—Again the Giants faced the Cubs, and this time McGraw said it must be "three straight." Up to this time the crippled factors had not been missed, but McGraw is somewhat on Uneasy Street and opined today that Donlin and Browne would be welcomed home with open arms.

"Not that I do not have full confidence in Strang and Brenahan," the Chief explained, "but I do not like to run on such a narrow margin. An accident or a mix-up with the umpire might put one or two men out of the game, and my reserve forces are just now very much limited."

The Giant pitching staff is working like a well-oiled piece of machinery just now, and Chicago is feeling the effects of it. By the way, you must not hold this Chicago crowd too cheaply, for they have given the Giants a fright on two occasions. That ninth inning rally yesterday gave McGraw a creepy feeling along the marrow and doesn't want any more close ones.

(Special to The Evening World.)
RACE TRACK, SARATOGA, Aug. 19.—Artful was still on the programme this afternoon, and the latest, when the track filled, was that she would start. Just what all the backing and fling with this filly meant no one knew. As late as 1 o'clock Mr. Rogers was asked what he would ride Artful. He said: "If she goes I will ride it. I have not yet decided."

She had not been scratched up to 3 o'clock, so the chances were that she would go.

The crowd was not up to the mark. Though there were two rich stakes on there was a decided lack of interest in them.

The presence of Artful in the Saratoga Cup lent great interest to that of course, but the two-year-olds in the United States Hotel Stakes were a moderate lot. The addition of McKintyre, then 100 boss bakers still refuse to sign the strike's contract.

LEADER KURTZ REFUSES TO CALL OFF STRIKE.

Samuel Kurtz, leader of the striking east side bakers, announced today that he would not call off the strike, as more than 100 boss bakers still refuse to sign the strike's contract.

"I could get 10 names on the contract to call off the strike," said Kurtz. "I have 125 names and there still 100 boss bakers outside the gate. Bakers have been supplied for the bakers who have struck, but I am holding 100 strikers back until the others sign."
